Huge Allied Air Fleet Hits Nazi Oil Plants

By LEO S. DISHER
LONDON, Nov. 21.—(BUP)—A great Allied aerial fleet hammered Nazi synthetic oil plants at Hamburg, Merseburg, Harburg, and Hamborn today and fierce air battles were reported throughout Germany.

American planes concentrated on the oil works at Hamburg, Merseburg, and Harburg while British Lancasters escorted Spitfires and Mustangs singled out the refineries at Ham on in the Ruhr.

Preliminary reports showed the United States fighters destroyed 62 German planes in combat and its ground. The American fighter losses were expected to be light.

POWERFUL FORCES
The heavy blow at the fuel sources for the German war machine was delivered by more than 1,250 Liberators and Flying Fortresses of the United States Army Air Corps.

Approximately 1,300 Mustangs, Thunderbolts and Mustangs accompanied the bombers.

The heavies concentrated on the oil plant at Merseburg where almost three weeks ago a great air battle was fought against 500 enemy planes, of which 10 were shot down.

The daylight assaults followed other attacks on Germany during the night by RAF planes. More than 100 British bombers, including Lancasters, dropped incendiary bombs on the oil plant at Bottrop, west of Gelsenkirchen, was put out of production and three others in the northern Ruhr damaged badly.

PAYING DIVIDENDS
Meantime, reconnaissance reports showed the bombing of fuel plants, was paying dividends. The RAF reported that the Luftwaffe's night fighters were lost in the night raids.

ALLIED SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Paris, Nov. 21.—(CP-Reuters). Gen. Eisenhower told reporters here today that while he was not critical of the home front effort, there was room for improvement in everything.

The comment came as he was questioned on everything following his recent broadcast call for more American participation in the war.

"I want more supplies than we are getting, and I think the soldier is entitled to more than he is getting, both now and in the future," he said.

"There is a job here for every man fit for battle whom we can get," he said. "I want every man back home to give everything he needs, and I want every man in the front to get everything he needs."

Gen. Eisenhower said the war was a team effort and that everyone had a job to do. He said that the war was a team effort and that everyone had a job to do.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—(CP-Reuters).—Paris radio reported tonight that troops of the United States 3rd Army had penetrated into the outskirts of the French city of Strasbourg, near the Rhine and 30 miles beyond captured Sarrebourg.

By J. EDWARD MURRAY
PARIS, Nov. 21.—(BUP)—French forces rolled up the collapsing German left flank to the Mulhouse area of the upper Rhine valley or beyond today, and east of Aschheim the Nazis were pulling back to a new Westland defence line along the Rhine river, 20 miles from Cologne.

Unconfirmed Axis and neutral reports said speedy French mobile units had moved 25 miles north of Mulhouse and captured the fortress city of Colmar while the American Seventh Army was fighting street by street through Sarrebourg, big transport center 50 miles from the northern tip of France.

The Brussels radio said that in a message to the French government, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower announced that Gen. Jean De Latour, the Tassary's forces had entered Mulhouse.

German forces were reported in full flight along a 125-mile front in eastern France when the collapse of the German front line was reported. American seventh and American third armies were moving to the west.

One of the war's biggest air battles, including more than 1,000 bombers and fighters, hammered German supply bases and fuel sources behind the northwest front. Thunderbolt dive bombers were reported to be attacking the US first and ninth armies and the British second army pushing Continued on page 2, Col. 3.

Use No Coercion
To Get Recruits

VANCOUVER, Nov. 21.—(CP)—Senior officers of the Pacific Command decided at a conference here yesterday that in attempting to increase the number of recruits the policy of obtaining recruits by force should be abandoned and that they would be approached individually for their own officers and no attempt will be made to appeal to law saboteurs.

The statement issued to the press by Maj.-Gen. R. P. Kearney, general officer commanding in chief, Pacific Command, reported that Gen. Kearney stated that "no coercion is to be used and that all will be 'sold' of the need of their services and that they will be approached individually for their own officers and no attempt will be made to appeal to law saboteurs."

When refunding of $500,000 Edmonton's debt is completed next February a total of approximately $1,100,000 will have been wiped off the total debt since the city was incorporated in 1917 according to figures released Tuesday by the city treasurer.

In addition to the reduction of the bonded indebtedness a bank loan of $200,000, which has been entirely paid off, to make the total reduction of the debt in principal to $1,100,000.

At 400,000 Nazis

By ROBERT S. MUSEL
LONDON, Nov. 21.—(BUP)—Russian troops, tanks and live-bombers were reported swarming against a battle line of 400,000 Germans against some 400,000 Germans positioned against the Baltic coast in Western Latvia today.

Soviet forces in the south rolled up the Nazi front line of the Baltic coast, partially isolating two of the Hungarian capital's main outposts.

The German Transcaspian News Agency also reported a new Soviet offensive in Slovakia northeast of the border with Hungary, 160 miles northeast of Budapest.

Jittery German broadcasts said the Russian armies to the north were over to the attack in Western Latvia yesterday in the first of the great winter offensives that are expected to set the entire 1,500-mile eastern front ablaze in the coming weeks.

The new offensive, which was not immediately confirmed in Moscow's early morning communique, apparently aimed at wiping out 30 German divisions and capturing a 6,000-square-mile pocket southeast of the Baltic port of Leningrad.

American cigarettes were selling on the Paris black market at $4 per pack.

To Officers' Statements

OTTAWA, Nov. 21.—(BUP)—A major departmental inquiry—possibly ultimately a court martial—today loomed in front of the group of high-ranking officers in the Sixth Division who in a press interview last night made public their conviction that the system of overseas enlistment could be made to work.

The interview, considered here as a major breach of army regulations, was recognized as bringing about a dramatic change in the army's policy of overseas enlistment.

It was the first time in the history of the Canadian Army, on the part of the officers, that service officers have gone on record publicly as disagreeing with the policy of the government.

"Freedoms" Undecided Partial Draft Convention For Control of Aviation Completed at Conference

By C. R. BLACKBURN

ALFRED FARNILO

Trades Council Endorses Vote Of Confidence

Confidence in Alfred Farnilo, Secretary of the Trades and Labor Council, as a member of the Workmen's Compensation Board, was expressed by delegates to the Trades Council at a meeting held Monday night at the Labor hall.

Carl E. Berg, vice-president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, introducing the confidence motion, said there had been unwarranted attacks on Mr. Farnilo by a section of labor. He said no charges against Mr. Farnilo had been made, only a demand for his removal as an officer of the board.

Malcolm Ainslie, secretary of the Alberta Federation of Labor, supporting the confidence motion said that the appointment of a minority representative to the board would satisfy the objections of those seeking Mr. Farnilo's dismissal.

He said that Mr. Farnilo was the nominee of the Federation to his present position, and added that there was not a single complaint registered with the Federation against his administration of the Workmen's Compensation Act since his appointment.

RESIONS POST

Mr. Berg, reporting on recent developments in the packing plant unions said that Fred Romanuk, past president of the United Meat Union, No. 24, a CIO affiliate, had resigned his post as president of that union, because he could not accept the master agreement recently negotiated by the CIO executive officers.

He reported that Romanuk had stated that the agreement did not fulfill the glowing promises of wage increases and better working conditions, made when the union was established in CIO unions in Edmonton was being carried out here.

A resolution was passed calling on the Dominion government to take immediate steps to relax restrictions on raw materials to provide work for the thousands of workers now being discharged from aircraft factories throughout Canada.

FUTURE MEETING

It was decided that at a future meeting the matter of providing a municipally operated ambulance to be on call for all accidents would be explored with a view to making representations to the proper authorities. Ald. Sidney Parsons, president of the council, intimated he has given study to the matter.

At the opening of the meeting members of the council observed the minute of silence in tribute to the late W. "Paddy" Griffin, who was a member of the council's executive.

Bobby Socks Girls' Problem in Thefts

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Shoelining by girls in bobby socks has become a major problem in Portland retail stores, police reported yesterday. The Portland Retail Trade Association launched an investigation after store executives reported confessions of high school youngsters that in their circles "it's smart to steal."

Tea is the Refreshing Beverage

This point and the many issues dependent upon it have kept the American, United Kingdom and United States delegations deadlocked in close conference since a week ago Sunday and last night no one would forecast when, if ever, compromise would be reached.

Without agreement on the question of whether international civil aviation is to be left to wide open competition as the Americans want it, or regulated by an international authority as proposed in the Anglo-Canadian plan, the partial draft convention release last night will not have effect.

INTERNATIONAL CONTROL

The partial draft provides for creation of "the international civil aviation authority," composed of an assembly, a board of directors, a president and a general manager.

Purposes of the administration are listed as:

1. To provide international air transport of high quality at the lowest possible price, with adequate service and generally to meet the needs of the people for safe, efficient and economical air transport.

2. Prevent economic waste caused by a lack of close to operate international air lines.
3. Ensure that rights of member states are respected and that each has a fair chance to operate international air lines.

AVOID DISCRIMINATION

4. Avoid of any possible discrimination between member states.

5. Encourage the peaceful arts of design and operation.

The proposed board of directors will include the president, elected by the assembly, and 12 members, seven of whom will represent the five major groups of states in air transport. The additional seven will be elected by the assembly, and will be chosen on geographical representation.

The board will be composed of the seven countries with automatic representation on the board.

The partial draft was released at 10:30 a.m. last night after several days of silence and inactivity among the close to 400 delegates.

Representatives from 34 countries were present at the conference.

It was the result of 10 days of constant effort by the part of the three countries to reconcile the British idea of strict control of allocations to companies which will fly the world's airways and the American stand for free competition.

The Canadian plan less involved in its control than that of the British and providing a fair market of free competition under control to prevent subsidized uncommercial operation and consequent rate wars.

The task of drafting was assumed by the Canadian delegation and the United States because they were the countries which came here with specific plans.

The partial draft now will be submitted to the other delegations and a preliminary session is expected to be called Tuesday after they have had a chance to study the document.

FOLLOWS CANADIAN IDEA

On the important question of rates the draft follows largely the Canadian idea of making them subject to review by the board which may order a revision if they are considered out of line.

However the rates are to be fixed by associations of airline operators which are to be set up in respect of given routes with regard to all relevant factors including economical operation, reasonable profit and differentials of rates.

Decisions of the board in the event of disputes between states will be subject only to appeal to a permanent court of international national justice or to a tribunal agreed upon by the disputants.

Only penalties provided against a state in which an operator violates the letter of the agreement, the refusal of other member states to permit that operator to fly over their territory.

Earlier last night, the fate of the conference appeared to hang in the balance with no sign of a break in the deadlock. Reconstruction Minister Howe, head of the Canadian delegation, returned to Ottawa Sunday after spending a week with two of his delegation colleagues and after each from the American and British groups, trying to bring about the compromise draft convention.

Mr. Howe's departure, announced and unknown to most of the correspondents here, was looked

Packing Plants Pledge Utmost In Production

OTTAWA, Nov. 21.—(CP)—Canada's three major meat packing companies and the united packhouse workers of America (CIO) have pledged themselves to "a high standard of production without interruption or curtailment of any kind," Mr. Justice S. E. Richards of Winnipeg said in a report made public by the labor department last night.

Mr. Justice Richards acted as a special commissioner in a dispute between the employers and union which threatened a strike of 10,000 packhouse workers.

Terms of an agreement reached at a series of conferences in Toronto were announced Nov. 3.

MASTER AGREEMENT

The union had sought a master agreement in the three companies—Canada Packers Ltd., Swift Canadian Co. Ltd. and Burns and Co.

The agreement provided that standard clauses should be included in the contracts between the union and local plants of the companies.

These clauses will provide for collection of union dues by deductions from pay and maintenance of membership provisions which require union members to continue their membership during the term of the agreement.

It is agreed that there will be no slowdowns, strikes or lockouts of employees until all procedures for the settlement of disputes have been exhausted.

Step Up Production

LONDON, Nov. 21.—(CP)—Reuters' Gen. Eisenhower's appeal to American workers to "pour out their shells" has found a response in Britain. British factories which had stopped production have been ordered to be re-started. Others are to step up production.

It was reported by some as an indication that he believed the drafting job on the compromise convention was fairly well completed.

Others interpreted it as a possible acceptance of failure to reconcile the stand for full international control taken by Lord Seston and his British colleagues as opposed to the almost universal competition demand of the American delegation headed by A. A. Berle, assistant under-secretary.

Turns Wife Into Human Torch

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Police said yesterday a 44-year-old house painter had admitted turning his wife into a human torch by pouring a mixture of kerosene and carbolic acid on her clothing.

The husband, identified by police as Abraham Gold, was booked on a homicide charge after his wife, Mrs. Bella Gold, 48, mother of four children, died in hospital.

"She nagged me," police quoted Gold as saying. "She said I was beating the children."

Gold was quoted by police as saying he threw a pail of the fluid on his wife as she stood in the bath-room, set it afire, then held the bath-room door closed until her screams had stopped.

Heiress Bona Fide Nevada Resident Can Link Problems

RENO, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Judge William McKnight in effect concluded yesterday that Doris Duke Cromwell was a bona fide resident of Nevada when she obtained a divorce here last week from James H. R. Cromwell, one time United States minister to Canada.

A New Jersey court has ruled that neither the nor Mr. Cromwell actually were residents of this state. William Woodburn, the tobacco heiress' lawyer, told the court that his client had been a bona fide Nevada resident since July 25, 1942.

Judge McKnight essentially ruled the New Jersey verdict null and void but set the matter aside until Nov. 27 to "prepare findings of fact and conclusions of law."

After the Nevada divorce was granted, the New Jersey chancery court ruled it was obtained by fraud and deception; that neither Mrs. Cromwell nor her husband was a resident of Nevada, and that consequently the Nevada court had no jurisdiction.

Quite in Order To Send Letters To Fire Corps

OTTAWA, Nov. 21.—(CP)—Officials of the war services department said yesterday it was "quite in order" for relatives and friends to send letters to members of the corps of Canadian firefighters overseas until they have been notified that the members of the corps have arrived in Canada.

They said they had received as a result of the recent announcement that the corps was to be demobilized and returned to Canada "statements have appeared in the press that no more letters, elegies or parcels should be sent to members of the corps in the United Kingdom."

City Airmen Just Unlucky While Out U-Boat Hunting

AN RCMP BASE IN NEWFOUNDLAND, Nov. 21.—(CP)—P.L. Peter G. Hughes of Courtenay, B.C. has sighted and attacked six enemy submarines since he has been on Atlantic coastal patrols.

F.O. Ronny Bedford, Sydney, N.S., and Edmonton has never so much as seen the periscope of an enemy submarine and has almost completed his third tour of coastal operations.

Hughes, one of the east coast top-ranking navigators, spotted his first sub Aug. 2, 1942, only a short while after he had left training school and joined an operations squadron.

"It was quite a thrill," he said. "I was just out of flying school and we were on an ordinary sweep. Three days later on a local flight I had still a bigger thrill when we sighted another. We dropped depth charges on both of these but they did not blow up either one."

SPOTTED WHITE SUB

When the Germans began sending submarines up the St. Lawrence river in 1942, Hughes spotted a white U-boat a few miles off the coast of Anticosti Island.

"We were about eight miles away when we first saw it," Hughes said. "We thought it was a white launch. When we got closer to it, I said, 'It's a sub.' The boys took my word for it because I had seen two already and they thought I should know. Thinking it I caught we hadn't lost any height and were too high to drop depth charges where it had disappeared beneath the surface."

A week later a second submarine was spotted in the same place and was attacked, but the results were unknown.

Hughes sighted his fifth and sixth subs on Nov. 15 and 16.

FOR BETTER COOKS

LONDON.—(CP)—To make this a nation of better professional cooks, the first examination in cookery for hotels and catering establishments are to be held next month by the City and Guilds of London Institute.

Canadian Railways are now moving more cars per day than during any period since the start of the war.

To feed the population of liberated areas, Canada has undertaken to provide a large quantity of wheat and flour, which must be moved to the eastern seaboard before the close of lake navigation; in addition, large quantities of munitions and war supplies, as well as current commercial shipments, will have to be transported. As very few cars have been constructed during the war years, it is necessary that we make our present equipment perform the service.

To help us fulfill Canada's obligations, the Railways request that shippers and receivers of carload freight, load and unload their cars as rapidly as possible.

A Nation of Bond-Holders

Incomplete returns last week showed that individual subscribers for Seventh Victory Loan bonds numbered 2,906,221.
That 3,000,000 more would be expected to be passed when all returns are in.

Not all buyers keep their bonds as a "backlog" against post-war contingencies.
The majority of buyers are "repeaters," subscribing for bonds of every issue that is offered. Making allowance for these cases it may be assumed that 4,000,000 or more Canadians now own bonds. This figure hold bonds of one or other of the war issues.

In addition bonds bought by business corporations are owned by the multitude of individuals who make up these companies and are permanent assets of those individuals, no less because they are bought jointly.

The population of the Dominion is not more than 12,000,000. Children and other non-earners make up at least half the total.
The adult population engaged in gainful employment, it is altogether probable that two in every three, if not a higher proportion, are owners or part-owners of war bonds, which they are keeping as a means of maintaining power or future investment capital.

Credit the late and unaltered depression with one thing, it taught Canadians to build financial assets for themselves when they have the chance.

General Taxation Survey

The decision of the Dominion Government to appoint a royal commission to investigate the taxation of co-operative enterprises is a wise one. The only trouble is that the investigation is too restricted.

The taxation problems of this country extend much further than those which have to do with co-operatives and the need for a general and immediate overhaul of the taxation machinery is surely obvious. There is every reason, therefore, why the Government should broaden the scope of the commissioning royal commission to include the whole field of taxes.

Two main problems would face a commission charged to look on behalf of the citizens for realizing the fact that business cannot function adequately in peacetime under its present load of taxation.
The reduction of corporation taxes is needed to stimulate the economy and thus ensure employment for our people.
The second phase of the taxation problem would have to do with four major incomes and many subsidiary ones.

The four major faults are:
1. The lack of a system of appeals against arbitrary decisions of tax officials.
Both British and American systems have tax and easy systems of appeal. In Canada, however, the Government commissioners have no right to appeal on under-payments of taxes, but allows the taxpayer no interest if he overpays.

2. There is a gross inequity in the double taxation of all money earned by a corporation—once through the corporate tax and again through the personal income tax. The small shareholder is taxed at the same rate through corporation taxes, as the millionaire.

3. The levying of income taxes on annuities, which means the taxation of capital. No other country is taxed.

4. Our collecting machinery has failed to support the load of business caused by our almost universal income tax. This problem could and should be relieved by abolishing the tax on real income.

There are other taxation injustices.
Those, at least, should be brought under review by the new royal commission.

Shells Save Men

The more shells Allied guns send crashing into the Siegfried Line, the fewer men will be lost in infantry attacks on these strongholds.

That seems elementary, and it gives point to General Eisenhower's appeal for more ammunition. While that appeal was directed particularly to the United States, it should get attention in Canada, an Allied country where it is possible to expand the output; and particular attention being given to the production of shells for the gunners before the fighting ends.

It is up to the Allied governments and the munitions manufacturers to keep on turning out more ammunition than there is likelihood the gunners can fire away; for only a probable surplus can guarantee that there will be enough shells.

There is no occasion, however, for emotional people to conjure up visions of our Allied men standing beside beleaguered guns, and the whole Allied effort being brought to a halt for lack of shells. That is not the position, and there is no likelihood that it will ever be so.

The guns, General Eisenhower says, are now firing shells which were not supposed to be used until February. The Allied forces have accumulated stocks of shells for months ahead. These piles have been depleted because of unexpectedly heavy fighting. The job is to restore them, but besides keeping current production in step with the day and night barrage that is being hurled into the West Wall defences along hundreds of miles.

That is a task which all parties concerned should tackle with enthusiasm. The call for more shells means that the enemy is being hit hard and without respite.
The lives of Allied soldiers are being saved by knocking his strongholds to pieces from long range.

Another Prospective Ally

Swedish warships are now escorting Swedish merchant ships carrying freight to Finland, Berlin having announced that non-German vessels sailing in the Baltic are to be sunk without warning.

Sweden is thus in the half-way position between neutrality and war. It is in diplomatic terms with Germany, but its warships are gunning for Nazi submarines. That is the position which the United States occupies, while its destroyers were guarding convoys en route to Britain but Washington had not yet declared war against the Axis.

Swedish shipments of iron ore are likely to be cut off eventually to Russia, if these include iron ore or other war supplies. As a neutral state Sweden is as fully entitled to ship iron ore or munitions materials to an Allied country as it formerly was to ship oil to Germany. The Allies did not try to negotiate that right by sinking Swedish cargo ships. It is clear that Berlin sees that its submarines will do it—hence they undoubtedly will do it if chance offers.

The half-way position is at best conditional, and in the circumstances temporary. When a Swedish cruiser detects a Nazi submarine sniping around a convoy the two sides will be at war from that moment with or without proclamation.

8 Juveniles Caught After Police Chase

Eight of nine juveniles who escaped from the South Side police station Sunday afternoon are back in custody, according to city police after a hectic 24-hour period which brought innumerable telephone calls, and complaints from small store operators.

One of the boys gave the cops up to RCMP soon after breaking out of the lock-up.

South Side police officers Monday evening presented a series of autopsies — the times the boys' bodies littered with the boys' own belongings, clothing they wore, cigarettes, money, loose toothpaste, and the marks resulting from their fights. Bits of their clothing were found too.

Only two of the youths were seriously injured, one of them killed, as noted by Constable J. K. Murray, who said he saw the scene after a short, quick chase.

Planes For Russia Repaired at City

Edmonton workers at the Air-have been busy repairing the land-lease aircraft flying over to Russia, by performing mechanical work on a number of P-40 Kingcobra fighters on the way to the frontier zone.

The work was in the nature of technical compliance orders, constituting the making of minor repairs to the aircraft.

Planes were being repaired by chief mechanic, J. W. G. Walters, and his staff of mechanics. Walters said the work was being done

New Walk-Rite Shoppe Re-Opens Wednesday for Inspection

Modern Architecture Give First Glimpse Coming Store Design

Offering Edmonton a first glimpse of store architecture of the coming era, Walk-Rite Style Shoppe, Ltd., opens its new building here, at 10171 101 street, for business this week.

I. R. Friedman, Walk-Rite manager, has issued an invitation to Edmonton citizens to inspect the new store between 2:30 and 9:00 p.m. Wednesday. No merchandise will be offered for sale at this time, the store opening for business in its new location Thursday morning.

Shopping Around Walk-Rite

By ANNE
The new Walk-Rite Style Shoppe has glimmered... glimmer in the 1945 version! Here at Walk-Rite are exquisitely fashioned dresses designed for real flattery—dresses that have the sophisticated elegance of the very newest styles. Our keen, fashion alert eyes took note of this superb collection as we passed through this magnificently beautiful paradise for women.

And we noticed too, that Walk-Rite has done "overboard" for suits this year, and no wonder, for they're such an all-time favorite with the Edmonton crowd. And... well, just love them too when you see the new sophisticated styles—more elegant yet with the same down-to-earth practicality that has endeared them to your heart.

Now, what about your winter coat? Haven't selected one yet? Well, believe us when we say that Walk-Rite has the winter coats to win your vote for popularity. Some warmly lined to wrap you in comfort... made of fine durable wool and all smartly styled in the latest fashions. Walk-Rite's gracious and attractive display of coats

Of five-story steel-and-brick construction, exterior of the new Walk-Rite store presents a picture of simple beauty. Exterior decoration, of modern design is executed in terrazzo cast stone, glass brick and black granite base form.

Glass brick, used for pillars on the store front, and to give emphasis to the decorative plan on the building's exterior, provides a crystal trim to the white front design, as well as making possible the utmost use of decorative neon lighting effects in the evening hours.

REAL FEATURE
Outstanding feature of the new store is the use made of glass in show windows and approach to the front doors. From the street, passers-by can see right through to back of the store's main floor, by use of plain glass backing for display windows.

Doors of the new Walk-Rite, unusual in Western Canadian buildings are of half-inch solid glass. Round plastic bar-type handles mounted horizontally, complete the effect given by the crystal-clear doors. From the door, shoppers can see the main floor in a special feature display as constructed that a semi-circular glass brick wall, lighted from the back by colored neon, silhouette with striking of feet garments displayed on a raised pedestal and lighted from ceiling spotlights.

Overhead, lighting decoration from the ceiling through the recessed doorway, carries through to back of the store. Main floor ceilings are of the suspended type, are shown in untrimmed or perk models. And don't pass up a peek at the marvelous collection of gorgeous furs... they're positively wonderful!

TYPE, with indirect lighting throughout.
Cold cathode lighting is used on street floor of the new store, completing a pastel color scheme applied to floors, walls and ceiling. Air conditioning units and automatic sprinkler heads are skillfully worked into the interior decorative scheme with but little to interfere their main function as comfort and safety features in the building.

STREET FLOOR
On the street floor, mirror panels are utilized to reflect and multiply the effect of the indirect lighting. A net work applied throughout, on both floors are mirrored and mirrored panels. In the centre of the mirror panel is a ground glass strip illuminated by a recessed light on either side of the door.

In the military section, all most full-length mirrors are spotted around the two remaining walls of the department, affording every opportunity to view merchandise from every angle. Located at street end of the floor, daylight lighting in the military section will aid in providing customers with delicate shades requiring different tones under varying types of illumination.

Back of the military department, extensive racks lighted by new cathode illumination fixtures will display the Walk-Rite furs, coats, suits and dresses in the advantage.

The fur section is at the rear of the store and is entirely mirrored. The splendid lighting effect is obtained through the use of concealed neon and the decorative motif is supplied by circles of neon at either end of the fur room.

A newly furnished and carpeted private room at the rear of the department is the answer to the average husband's objection to accompanying friend wife on that hunt for a new fur coat.

DISPLAY WINDOWS
In the two large display windows, invisible lighting has been installed to light street displays. No matter from what angle, front or back, a person may look into the windows, no glare from lighting fixtures can be seen. This is made possible by "cage" baffles especially built to eliminate glare shining to often found in show window displays.

On Walk-Rite's lower floor, semi-indirect "hot cathode" lighting is used throughout. This floor will feature shoes, handbags, sportswear, lingerie, jewelry, and general offices of the store.

In the shoe department, display cases have been fitted with built-in neon lighting to show to advantage the latest creations in footwear. Separate built-in compartments for boxed shoes permit easy access by members of the sales staff and provides extensive dust-proof storage for stock.

For convenience of customers buying sportswear and other heavier floor merchandise, six special

Changing rooms have been installed. Like those on the street floor, these rooms are fitted with full-length mirrors so arranged that a view of customers from any angle may be obtained.

COAT STORAGE
Third floor of the building will house a modern fur coat storage plant, to be equipped with the latest in refrigeration and air conditioning equipment. Automatic fire-doors will guard against possibility of fire and the whole storage unit will be heavily insulated with fire-proof, heat-and-cold proof material.

At least 5,000 fur coats can be stored in the plant, where temperature will be maintained at 38 degrees, with intermittent periods of freezing at 15 degrees, in order to destroy any possibility of insect life.

A fur factory and workshop, for fur repairs and manufacture of new coats, has been provided on the mezzanine floor of the new store. This floor will also house an up-to-date alteration department for convenience of customers wishing factory-finished changes in garments purchased in the store.

The whole building has been air-conditioned, the most modern units available being used to purify air coming into the store. Air will be drawn from over the roof, cleaned, warmed, and humidified by the conditioning plant, and delivered by ducts to various parts of the store.

By maintaining the conditioning system at a higher air pressure than exists outside, cold air in winter and warm air in summer will be kept from the building. Air treated by the system will actually

Understanding Of Returning Vets Is Urged

OTTAWA, Nov. 21.—(CP)—Back from a tour of European battlefronts, Joseph W. G. Clark, director-in-chief of public relations of the armed forces, said in an interview here last night that Canadians at home would do well to prepare themselves mentally for understanding returning war veterans.

"They are used to close comradeships—many of them are international and inter-empire in scope—and they don't understand the narrow and provincial mentalities," he said.

CITIZENS OF WORLD
"In truth they are citizens of the world with broad horizons and we must be prepared to bring ourselves up to their level when they return. That is the understanding they will rightly expect."

He said last night that the "splendid cooperation" of The Canadian Press in publishing the Canadian Press news for distribution to all theatres, through the army newspaper Maple Leaf, and through the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, the men at the front are being given a good service of news from Canada.

"But they can't seem to get enough news of the neighborhood type and they all ask the same question: 'Why don't the folks at home fill in the little interesting details we want to know and why don't they write more often?'"

"Just because they've been away a long time, their friends at home shouldn't get the idea they are no longer interested in little items of neighborhood news and gossip—about changes such as the new grocery store or new paving on Green street or who is president of the local bowling league."

IMPRESSIVE SIGHT
One of the most impressive sights he had seen on his tour was the constant movements of great armadas or unarmored Dakota transports at Brussels. He said the big fleet came over in formation, circling the area, being forced out through the doors, ensuring no outside air will enter. R. H. Gillingham, Edmonton, is architectural designer in charge of modernizing the new Walk-Rite store. Jack Lane, interior decorator of New York City, has been in charge of interior decoration, while A. V. Carlson, general contractor, has carried out modernizing operations.

Still Come First Requirements Must Still Have Place, Byrne Sanders Director of the Prices Board

OTTAWA, Nov. 21.—(CP)—Military requirements must still have first place, Byrne Sanders, director of the Prices Board, said yesterday in a statement which pointed out that shortages of labor in the knitting mills were largely responsible for the inability of women to buy as many "sheer stockings as they would like."

Walk-Rite's New Street Floor Is Shopping Paradise for Milady

Most Advanced Type Of Design Employed To Aid Buying Public

Street floor of the new Walk-Rite Style Shoppe, representing the most advanced design in modern store architecture, is unusual in that the whole floor is visible from the street.

From a Woman's Viewpoint

WOMEN in Edmonton need no longer pass through the "Young, charming, and other women's fashion magazines, and gaze wistfully at the lovely creations they exhibited, waiting for a similar store here in which to exercise that indispensable woman's right of "explaining on clothes." For this city now has its own version of The Famous New York "Saks Fifth" and others of that type. None other than that impression is the one a woman receives as she walks through the inviting display of entrance of the new Walk-Rite Style Shoppe.

The combination of attractive and unusual color schemes, the handsome wide stairways, the soft lighting, are but a few of the features that hold the eye upon first glance. Closer inspection reveals modern, spacious and well mirrored fitting rooms, a feature dear to the heart of every feminine shopper. For the girl who is engaged in the hurrying world of the business woman, lacking little leisure time in which to do her coveted shopping, the store's central location will be a "Godsend."

The thought, that upon completion there will be not only five floors, each offering an impressive amount of new styles from which to pick any garment you may be looking for, coupled with a most luxurious atmosphere in which to choose and buy, is the factor that will make any future shopping a pleasure. For the woman who has no time to look forward to an afternoon, or a girl, school girl, or the woman of the home, the Walk-Rite has placed its entire new establishment at her disposal, ready to cater to every woman's first desire—a smart, exclusive-looking clothes.

"Strike" Backfires On 'Peg Housewives

WINNIPEG, Nov. 21.—(CP)—Many Winnipeg housewives yesterday went home to a lunch of bread soup, headed vial cutlets, bread pudding and bread and butter as housewives struggled with the problem of disposing of supplies of bread and yeast thrust into every available corner Saturday in case the bakers went on strike.

Danger of the strike faded Saturday night when the bakery workers accepted an Ottawa offer to have the Manitoba Regional War Labor Board review their application for increased wages and improved working conditions. And the housewives of the city awakened yesterday wondering how to dispose of the surplus without waste.

Stevedore officials of the Canadian Bakery Workers' Union, Local One, representing the workers, said they hoped to see Mr. Justice S. E. Richards, who will preside at the hearing, to arrange speedy disposal of the case. These officials said a preliminary hearing has been promised for next Wednesday.

Advertising Group Names President

TORONTO, Nov. 21.—(CP)—The first meeting of the Canadian advertising and sales federation here elected Bacon Brodie, of Toronto, as president. Formerly called the League of Canada Advertising and Sales Clubs, the Federation decided upon a general broadening of objectives. Other officers elected included Roy A. Hunter, Vancouver.

From the inside as well as from the street, by reason of plate glass backing for the windows instead of the usual wood paneling. Light in the showcases is invisible from every angle, permitting absolutely no glare to confront customers or passers by as they examine displays.

The street floor is completely air-conditioned, fixtures being mounted in the ceiling where they become part of the modern decorative scheme. Ceiling decoration, by means of glass transoms over the store's main doors, is carried in theme right out to the sidewalk fronting the premises.

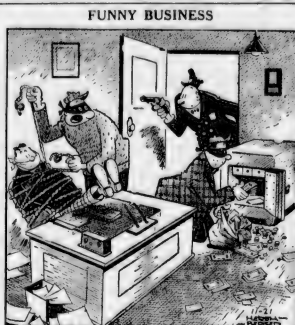

Of special note are the doors themselves, of half-inch armor-plate glass mounted in using in or out. They are fitted with transparent plastic handles on both sides, fitted horizontally in complement to modern decorative effect of the doors' surroundings. Only metalwork on the doors is around the hinges and in mounts for the handles.

Thirteen fitting rooms on the street floor provide convenience to those trying on prospective purchases. These rooms, behind dress racks along the length of the floor on both sides, are fitted with full length mirrors so placed that a view of the garment from any angle is seen by the wearer.

Mirrors have been used extensively for decorative effect throughout the whole of the floor, fitting room doors being solid mirrored panels in every instance. At the front of the store, the millinery section is backed by a huge counter-excelling in length and narrower mirrors of other walls of the department.

Christmas Shopping at Walk-Rite

By GLADYS

One country folk thinking about Christmas and gifts as we passed through the new Walk-Rite . . . for here we thought was the perfect dream place to select lovely gifts! And as it is not too early to be thinking about Christmas, we decided to start making out our gift list that very minute. It pays to be an early bird, was the warden when it comes to Christmas shopping for don't you just hate that last-minute rush?

Stepping down through the wide, graceful stairway for a moment on the lower floor we observed the most wonderful, warm-looking, colorful sweaters—the Christmas gift every female from six to sixty loves to find under the tree. A wide awake young sales girl in a smart, smart, smart dress, here that Walk-Rite has one of the best selections in Edmonton. Downy soft sweaters—long sleeves, short sleeves, slip-ons . . . they'll make wonderful gifts.

Just what girl hasn't welcomed lingerie and hosiery for Christmas? We knew of very few who haven't cherished such a gift. Walk-Rite's hosiery and lingerie department (we are still on the lower floor) is simply a grand place to shop around in. Lovely little "jovials" in underthings for every modern girl have their place in this well laid-out department. Like them? We did, for we spent a long, long time admiring the pretties.

McCoy Health Service

The prostate is a small, firm gland weighing about half an ounce which in men surrounds the neck of the bladder and the urethra. It is made up of three lobes and is composed partly of glandular tissue and partly of muscular tissue. Enlargement of the prostate is a common condition and may cause an obstruction to the outflow of liquid from the bladder. Frequently the two symptoms first complained of are: the necessity of emptying the bladder at short intervals, and the complaint that the act of emptying causes pain.

In the chronic cases, the patient usually has a history of finding it necessary to void liquid waste material with more and more frequency, and often this symptom may develop so gradually that several months will go by before the patient is bothered very much. This frequency may interrupt the sleeping period, forcing the patient to awaken during the night so as to relieve the bladder.

Other symptoms may appear slowly, such as a burning sensation or a feeling of urgency. There may be a pain in the lower back which is at its worst in the early morning, or there may be difficulty in starting the flow. If there is very much obstruction because of enlargement, the patient will find it difficult to empty the bladder completely.

Incomplete emptying of the bladder in turn favors decomposition and encourages bladder irritation or cystitis. Also a sufficient back pressure may develop to affect the kidneys.

In patients seen in private practice having a prostatic obstruction about one-third will complain of a burning sensation; about one-third will complain of difficulty in starting or maintaining the flow of liquid.

About three-fourths of the cases will be found in the forties, fifties and sixties. At least one-third of the patients will have had trouble for one to three years; and another third has been bothered by symptoms for as long as four to ten years.

Inflammation of the prostate which has reached the chronic stage may arise from a number of causes. It may be the after-effect of a urinary or bladder infection. Or, the inflamed prostate may be the result of causes indelible in themselves which when occurring together will encourage congestion and irritation of the prostate such as wrong diet, constipation, lack of exercise, and so on.

It is possible for the prostate to be the seat of an inflammation which is not suspected by the patient, and yet which is producing mental disturbances such as irritability, loss of confidence, and a tendency to worry. The chief symptom complained of by the patient may be loss of virility. A further possible symptom is a discharge which will cause cloudiness or ur-sed to appear in the first part of the fluid elimination, with the second part remaining clear.

All questions regarding health and diet will be answered. Large stamped, self-addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 130 words. Address: McCoy Health Service, The McCoy Building, 1331 West 6th Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

Debunker

When vultures or buzzards are seen circling about over some dead body, it is generally believed that the bird located this food by sight. This is not true, for they cannot smell this far away. They locate it by sight. Most birds have a poor sense of smell, but a remarkable exception. In some birds, the visual acuteness is 100 times as great as in man. This is why a bird can see a tiny insect at 100 yards, while man could not see it at a few feet.
